

PRESS RELEASE

ONE OF THE MOST IMPRESSIVE JOURNEYS IN THE HISTORY OF BRAZILIAN METAL

"COSMIC REDEMPTION"

"Cosmic Redemption" stands as Noturnall's fourth studio album, featuring the impressive lineup of Thiago Bianchi on vocals, Saulo Xakol on bass, Henrique Pucci on drums, and the renowned Mike Orlando (Adrenaline Mob) on guitar. This album presents the band at their best, with bold productions and grand, deep and purposeful songs than ever before. The result is a tour with more than 30 dates in Brazil alongside Paul Di'anno (ex-Iron Maiden), extending through Europe, Asia, Oceania, later returning to Brazil for more than 20 shows with Edu Falaschi.

Born out of the experiences from the tour with American rockers Disturbed, in Russia, "Cosmic Redemption" has already been considered by the public and the specialized media as the best work of Noturnall's career so far, counting again on songs that came to be become true anthems of the genre, accompanied once again by great feats such as the participation of world music icons such as Ney Matogrosso, Mike Portnoy (Dream Theater, Adrenaline Mob, The Winery Dogs, Sons of Apollo), David Ellefson (ex-Megadeth) and Michael Romeo (Symphony X). The album also had a music video for one of its tracks recorded in Favela da Rocinha.

Vocalist Thiago Bianchi reflects on "Cosmic Redemption" by stating, "This album is a testament to our resilience and determination. It was a product of intense effort, especially in the face of band restructuring and the challenges brought on by a global pandemic. There were moments when it seemed insurmountable, but that's the essence of Metal – a force greater than any individual within a band. It possesses a life of its own. I take immense pride in my bandmates and this album. Listen closely, for in a genuine message, in a time saturated with the unreal, 'Cosmic Redemption' embodies the collective journey of our human race."

Featuring Ney Matogrosso, Mike Portnoy (Dream Theater, Adrenaline Mob, The Winery Dogs, Sons of Apollo), David Ellefson (ex-Megadeth) and Michael Romeo (Symphony X)

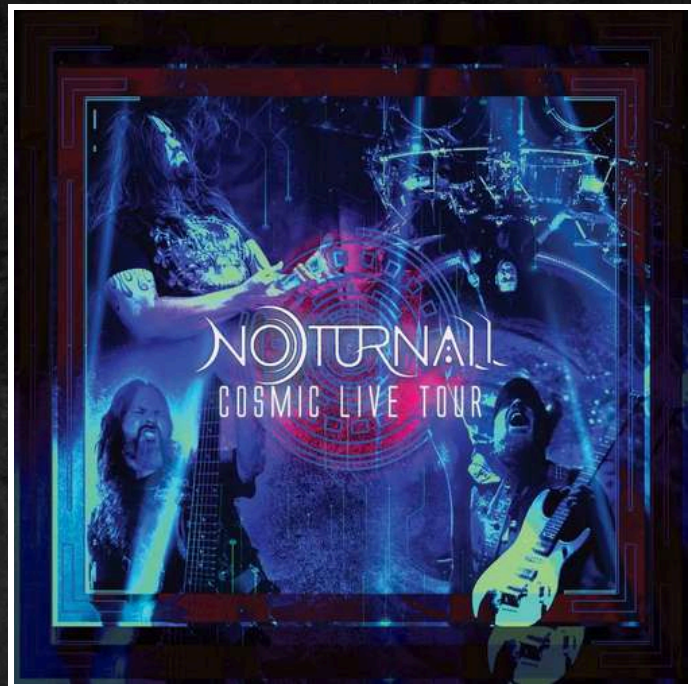

NOTURNALL

"COSMIC LIVE TOUR"

Since the release of their fourth studio album, "Cosmic Redemption", Noturnall has been traveling the world on extensive tours that have already taken them to Brazil, Russia, Australia, the United Kingdom, France, Italy, Germany, the United States, among many other countries. As a result of this great work promoting the album, the band released the "Cosmic Live Tour", a quadruple live album, followed by videos of the four concerts, recorded in Russia and Brazil, bringing a little of the experience of Noturnall's live performances into the listener's home.

"Cosmic Live Tour" is further proof of the boldness and magnitude undertaken in all of Noturnall's actions, which for this release included special appearances by renowned musicians such as Mike Portnoy, James LaBrie, Edu Falaschi, Luis Mariutti, Alirio Netto and Fabrizio di Sarno.

The album's concerts and "Cosmic Live Tour" videos feature Noturnall's performances in the Russian cities of Moscow, St. Petersburg and Yekaterinburg, and the Brazilian cities of Curitiba, São Paulo and Nova Friburgo.

NOTURNALL IN JAPAN IN 2025

Continuing their remarkable world tour, with more than 150 dates already completed in Europe, Oceania, South America, North America, and Central America, Noturnall has just added another continent to their highly successful "Cosmic World Tour". In February, the band made their debut in Japan with four shows in the cities of Tokyo, Nagoya, and Osaka. This was the band's first visit to the country, where vocalist and leader Thiago Bianchi is already widely recognized for his work with the bands Shaman and Karma.

The performances in Tokyo included the recording of a DVD, directed by Thiago Bianchi and Jason McNamara, as well as a music video for an unreleased track, featuring footage captured throughout the tour. The shows, promoted by the renowned Japanese label Rubicon Music, which represents the band in the country, featured special guest performances from Majustice, a Japanese band led by Brazilian vocalist Iuri Sanson, and Illusion Force, an acclaimed Asian Melodic Metal band with members from Japan and South Korea. Noturnall's performance also featured special appearances by renowned Japanese guitarists Yo Onityan and Jien Takahashi, Brazilian band Storia's vocalist Pedro Torchetti, and Iuri Sanson himself.

STUDIO ALBUMS

NOTURNALL [2014] ✧

Noturnall's debut album was recorded in Brazil and New York, in the United States, with the renowned Russell Allen (Symphony X, Adrenaline Mob) as one of its producers. The album achieved very impressive sales figures especially in Brazil, spending 5 weeks as the best-selling release at the classic Die Hard store, at Galeria do Rock.

Reviews for the release were also absolutely positive. Renowned journalist Marcelo Moreira published on his Blog "Combate Rock" on UOL, that "everything on the album is in good taste and well done, with impeccable production and well-structured arrangements", while Ricardo Seelig, editor-in-chief of the website "Collector's Room" declared that "the breaking of paradigms makes Noturnall's first album surprising".

BACK TO FUCK YOU UP [2015] ✧

Noturnall's 2nd album surpassed the sales records of the band's debut, bringing an even more contemporary song and taking the band to play for the 1st time at Rock in Rio. Território da Música classified the album as the best Heavy Metal album of the year.

Journalist Marcos Garcia, who gave the album a score of 10, states that "In general, a band's second album is always eagerly awaited. And this factor becomes even more evident when we talk about a successful band, recognized for work whose level is very high. Obviously, many are hoping for something to go wrong, but NOTURNALL didn't let the ball fall and returns with their second album, whose title is a statement to the detractors of their work: Back to F You Up".

On their third album, Noturnall included the renowned guitarist Mike Orlando (Adrenaline Mob), expanding their presence in the United States, even participating in the Cruzeiro Axes & Anchors Cruise, alongside legends such as Zakk Wylde, Yngwie Malmsteen, Marty Friedman, among others.

The album was written during a very difficult period for the band, resulting in compositions that were even stronger, more powerful and full of purpose, generating the band's heaviest and deepest album yet.

COSMIC REDEMPTION [2023] ✧

"Cosmic Redemption" stands as Noturnall's fourth studio album, featuring the formidable lineup of Thiago Bianchi on vocals, Saulo Xakol on bass, Henrique Pucci on drums, and the renowned Mike Orlando (Adrenaline Mob) on guitar. This album showcases the band at the zenith of their prowess, delivering compositions that are more grandiose, bold, complex, and profound than ever before. The result is an expansive tour that has already spanned over 30 dates in Brazil alongside Paul Di'anno (ex-Iron Maiden) and is set to continue with nearly 100 additional dates across Europe, Asia, Oceania, and a return to Brazil.
